

hard core song

I haven't got aggression left even if I try so I can't write you a hard core song now let me tell you why all day long I am thinking about how to say the perfect truth out loud there's no desire left in me to acquire sympathy with loss and hate and all that shit

I leave that to those who like to deal with it

I work better when I see things bright it took a long long time for me to learn to breathe in light and I'm never gonna go back to the way I used to be me

It's not that I don't have passion there are quite a lot of bees in my ass it's more that I prefer to be someone that is not harassed by pre-programmed outbursts of self delusion crap and for me an a-class hard core song has a well dosed portion of exactly that now loss and hate and all that shit

I leave that to those who like to deal with it

I work better when I see things bright

I preserve my energy to make my world completely free of anything that's hard core course that's not what I am here for

I used to walk around all black my god that is a million years back I certainly didn't like me then and saw hard core in all human loss and hate and all that shit

I leave that to those who like to deal with it

I work better when I see things bright
